

Confidentiality

Summary/Purpose: Students, Faculty and Staff have the right to Confidentiality.

The UCC protects the confidentiality of clients in all aspects of service, including communication with clients, management of files and case consultation except where written permission to release information has been obtained or when a release of information is specifically required by law. These situations could include threat to injure or harm self or others, revealing information regarding observed abuse, neglect or molestation of minors or vulnerable adults or when ordered by the court. All clients are made aware of policies regarding confidentiality.
